

Pediatric Emergency Medicine Physician Chicago Suburbs

Northwestern Medicine Central DuPage Hospital and Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago are seeking pediatric emergency medicine physicians for a community-based pediatric emergency department (PED). Located at Central DuPage Hospital in Winfield, Illinois, just 30 miles from the vibrant city of Chicago, the PED is staffed with board certified pediatric emergency medicine physicians, advance practice nurses, and pediatric-trained nursing and support staff.

The PED at Central DuPage Hospital is part of Lurie Children's at Northwestern Medicine Central DuPage Hospital, a comprehensive pediatric subspecialty program. A full complement of pediatric sub-specialists supports the PED including all major medical and surgical specialties. Central DuPage Hospital is a Level II Trauma Center and is an Illinois certified Pediatric Critical Care Center. The Central DuPage Hospital PED experiences more than 12,500 visits annually.

The successful candidate will be board-eligible or certified in pediatric emergency medicine and have excellent clinical and interpersonal skills. A competitive salary and benefit package is available, including 10% matching on 403(b), paid vacation and CME time, and eligibility for year-end incentive compensation. Central DuPage Hospital PED physicians have a faculty appointment at the Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. In addition to clinical time at Central DuPage Hospital, the opportunity for some clinical and academic time at Lurie Children's new state of the art facility in downtown Chicago is available.
