

UC DAVIS

The University of California, Davis School of Medicine, Department of Emergency Medicine is conducting a faculty search for an Emergency Medicine physician to serve as Vice Chair for Clinical Operations. For the qualified individual, there are substantial opportunities for leadership and growth within the Department and the School of Medicine. Candidates must be residency trained in Emergency Medicine with board certification and be eligible for licensure in California. Prior leadership positions including those involving clinical operations, patient safety and quality of care are desired. Candidates are expected to enter at the Associate or Professor level, commensurate with experience and credentials.

The University of California, Davis, Medical Center, one of the nation's "Top 50 Hospitals," is a 613 bed academic medical center with approximately 80,000 emergency department visits annually, including approximately 17,000 pediatric visits. The emergency services facility opened in 2010 and is state-of-the-art. Our program provides comprehensive emergency services to a large local urban and referral population as a level 1 trauma center, paramedic base station and training center. The department also serves as the primary teaching site for a fully accredited EM residency program and eight different EM fellowship programs. Our residency training program began more than twenty years ago and currently has 42 residents. The Department has a separate area for the care of children and is one of the leading centers in the Pediatric Emergency Care Applied Research Network (PECARN).

Salary and benefits are competitive and commensurate with training and experience. Sacramento is located near the northern end of California's Central Valley, close to Lake Tahoe, San Francisco, and the "wine country" of the Napa and Sonoma Valleys. Sports enthusiasts will find Sacramento's climate and opportunities ideal.

For consideration, a letter outlining interests and experience along with curriculum vitae should be sent to <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF01544>.
